Gather at Wells Street Park, Wailuku, Maui

Three Kanaka Maoli Hawaiian Nationals, Henry Noa, Nelson Armitage and Russell Kahookele will stand trial in Maui District Court at 8:00a.m. Friday, June 15, 2007 on charges by the State of Hawaii of criminal trespass and violation of closed waters on and around the island of Kaho'olawe.

The U.S. Government has continually recognized in their own laws and legal documents the Kingdom of Hawai'i as the legitimate sovereignty of the Hawaiian Islands for over 114 years, and whose political authority was suspended illegally in 1893 in an act of war against a friendly treaty partner Nation and in clear violation of International Law.

On March 13, 1999, Kanaka Maoli reinstated the former inherent sovereignty of the Kingdom of Hawai'i in accordance to international law and Hawaiian Kingdom laws to answer the legal obligation created by the Apology Bill - United State's Public Law 103-150.
