

Basically Books

SATURDAY, AUGUST 7, 2:00 PM

WAHINE NOA

for the life of my country

The Book and the CD

KEAHI FELIX

Power Point CD included.

A BOOK LIKELY TO RAISE
EYEBROWS AND
FOSTER SELF-EXAMINATION . . .

WAHINE NOA (Woman with no restrictions) goes below surface values to a place of integrity that many of us cannot live without. It gives a view of Hawai'i that many refuse to acknowledge. If they did, then native rights and international status and the corresponding U.S. obligations to them would take a different turn.

“Everything in this book deals with my desire to help save my country from contrary forces and bring its pristine nature to the world.”

AS A BRIDGE ACROSS TIME, THIS BOOK AND COMPANION CD EXTEND THE ANCIENT GENEALOGY OF THE HAWAIIAN PEOPLE TO THE SCHOLARSHIP AND CIVIL RESISTANCE OF TODAY.

“Thank you so much for the opportunity to read your wonderful manuscript. As I said before, the writing is so beautiful and professional; it was a real privilege. I learned some things too. I wish you great success with it, and that it serves a purpose equal to that which your wonderful spirit deserves.”

Carol Baldwin, Librarian, Los Angeles Public Library

Photo by Marta Birchard

MEET KEAHI FELIX

A fourth generation Hawaiian national, Keahi Felix never set out to island hop. Born on Maui, she grew up on O'ahu, lived for many years on Kaua'i, and now resides happily on Hawai'i Island. Wahine Noa is her first major publication whose unpredictable multi-genre style, the author uncomplainingly attributes to some kind of genie in her make-up that prompts her to find various ways to walk a straight line.

160 Kamehameha Ave. • downtown Hilo • 961-0144 • www.basicallybooks.com